Finding Quality Transportation
Whether you're shipping your motorcycle for a bike rally, vacation, relocation or a new bike purchase, you'll want to use a motorcycle transport company that specializes in hauling bikes. What do you look for when choosing a company that is qualified to do motorcycle transport

1. A service that is licensed, insured, and employs CERTIFIED motorcycle transport people.
2. A company that has the proper equipment
3. A place that delivers your bike ready-to-go. Some companies will have you crate, drain fluids and disconnect the battery.

Motorcycle Transport Questions:

- Will my bike be delivered directly to my home (or rally) or does it have to be picked up at a dealer location or terminal? Are there any additional fees, such as extra costs for insurance or special delivery location?
- Is the company insured and licensed?
- How many years of experience do they have hauling motorcycles?
- Are they a residential and commercial delivery service?
- Will I have to do anything to prepare the bike before shipping?
- Will my motorcycle be shipped with other cargo, such as livestock or someone's furniture?
- Does the company ship with open or enclosed trailers?
- How will the bike be secured in the truck?
- Will the driver help me unload my bike from the truck?
- Will my bike be ready to drive upon delivery?
